

Fig. 1. Map of main collection sites in Borneo.

montane forest (Kikuta et al., 1997; see also Kobayashi & Hotta, 1978). The main trail is relatively wide, probably providing forest edge habitats, from which smaller trails extend into the forest. Collection was made along this trail system close to the substation headquarters.

Mahua Waterfall area Taman Banjaran Crocker (Crocker Range National Park) is a forest-covered mountain range which stretches in a southwesterly direction from Mt. Kinabalu toward Sabah-Sarawak border. The peaks of the range are about 30 km from the coastline and rise to between