

Figs. 11 - 15: Details of structure of Myrmica angulata (queen). (11) Head, dorsal view; (12) scape, lateral view; (13) alitrunk and waist in profile; (14) alitrunk and waist from above; (15) tibia and base of first tarsal joint of hind leg.

arboreal species living and foraging mainly in the canopy, in which case it might be endangered by excessive logging activities. Specimens were found at altitudes of 2000 - 2200 m a.s.l.