

FIGURES 13–18. A. poultoni Crawley, worker: Fig. 13, front of head; Fig. 14, lateral view of body. A. pythia Forel, neotype worker: Fig. 15, front of head; Fig. 16, lateral view of body. A. reichelae sp. n., holotype worker: Fig. 17, front of head; Fig. 18, lateral view of body.

Diagnosis. Hairs on venter of head randomly distributed and not forming a distinct psammophore (Fig. 8); head relatively narrow (Fig. 21), its posterior margin broadly arched in full face view (Fig. 7); scape relatively long (Fig. 22); erect hairs on mesosomal dorsum tapering to sharp points; propodeal spines long, the dorsal surfaces of propodeum and propodeal spines connected through a gentle concavity followed by a gentle